Life in a state of emergency - Mai

Welcome to this survey by the University of Konstanz. The spread of the coronavirus has greatly changed the lives of most people in Germany. We, a team of social scientists, would like to contribute to a well-informed policy to cope with the current crisis.

For this purpose, we ask you a series of questions below, which you can answer with your everyday experiences and opinions. There are no wrong answers. Please answer truthfully, this is the only way we can get a realistic picture of the opinions in the population.

The University of Konstanz does not store IP addresses and only has access to the information that you voluntarily give us in the following approx. 20 minutes. The data is used exclusively for scientific purposes and is processed in such a way that no conclusions can be drawn about individual persons.

Measures to overcome the crisis

There is currently much debate about when the various measures against the Corona epidemic should be lifted. Some say this should be done immediately. Others want this to be done only when there is a vaccine or a treatment option. We are interested in your personal opinions on this question.

For each measure, check 1 if it should be repealed immediately; check 10 if it should not be repealed until there is a vaccine or treatment option. You can use the values in between to grade your judgment.

Economic policy measures

Due to the Corona crisis, many companies have less revenue. To compensate for these losses, various measures have been proposed and introduced. We ask for your assessment of such measures.

On the following pages you will find descriptions of various companies and (partly hypothetical) measures. Please indicate how reasonable and how fair you think it would be if the respective measure benefited the company described.

6 Case studies

Example text	A company with 25 employees had to close completely for the months of March and April due to the crisis. Before the crisis, the company was making losses. Under a Corona measure, the state grants the company an interest-free loan to make up for the complete loss of revenue in March and April. The loan is financed by an increase in the value-added tax.
