Life in a state of emergency

Welcome to this survey by the University of Konstanz. The spread of the coronavirus has greatly changed the lives of most people in Germany. We, a team of social scientists, would like to contribute to a well-informed policy to cope with the current crisis.

The pandemic has been dominating life for over a year now. Much has changed since then, and we are investigating how people in Germany have experienced this period. Your renewed participation helps us to do this. Thank you very much.

For this purpose, we ask you a series of questions below, which you can answer with your everyday experiences and opinions. There are no wrong answers. Please answer truthfully, this is the only way we can get a realistic picture of the opinions in the population.

The University of Konstanz does not store IP addresses and only has access to the information that you voluntarily give us in the following approx. 20 minutes. The data is used exclusively for scientific purposes and is processed in such a way that no conclusions can be drawn about individual persons.

Corona restrictions settings

There is much debate in the media and in politics about when the various measures against the Corona pandemic should be lifted or reinstated. Some want a complete opening. Others want this only after everyone has been vaccinated. We are interested in your personal opinions on this issue.

For each area, please mark "1" if it should be open/allowed without restriction; mark 10 if it should remain closed/prohibited without exception until the pandemic is over. You can use the values in between to grade your judgment.

Since April 24, the so-called "federal emergency brake" has been in effect in Germany, according to which, among other things, daycare centers, kindergartens and schools must remain closed if the incidence rate of corona infections in a district exceeds 165 cases per 100,000 inhabitants in three days. We are interested in the support for this new law.

For your information, one in six children under the age of 18 in Germany comes from a household with educationally disadvantaged or non-German-speaking parents.

Given the incidence figures above, do you support...?
